MICHAEL HOFFMAN

Mike Hoffman is a Vice President in Corporate & Investment Banking at BNP Paribas, the world's fourth largest bank ranked by assets as of December 31, 2011. Working closely with all areas of the bank, he focuses on developing and managing long-term relationships with the Bank's multinational corporate clients in the Pharmaceutical and Chemical industries. Prior to BNP Paribas, Mike held various positions with LaSalle Bank, prior to being acquired by Bank of America. Mike has a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from the University of Delaware where he was a three year letter winner on the men's varsity golf team and a Master of Business Administration with distinction from the Kellstadt Graduate School of Business at DePaul University.

Mike's career as a musician ended when he failed to master "Hot Cross Buns" as a trumpet player in 5th grade. Fortunately, he continues to listen and enjoy all forms music and truly believes in the benefits music can provide to people of all ages. Mike lives in Chicago with his wife, Lizzie, who originally introduced the Hoffman family to Little Kids Rock.
