Peter is a native New Yorker who works in the finance industry. He attributes music, music education, the arts, and his mother for his creative approach to problems. His dedication to Little Kids Rock’s mission is founded on the belief that children will need imagination and dedication to thrive in a changing world.